

Privacy ... Please be advised and assured that any information you have disclosed will not be used for any purpose other than responding to your enquiry. Your information will not be disclosed to any third party. Where appropriate your information will be deleted from our systems after your enquiry has been completed.

Downloading productions ... We cordially invite you to download any production/recording we make available, however, owing to our licensing conditions we respectfully remind you that unless you are licensed to do so in the country / state in which you broadcast, any production(s) produced or made available by PD Productions may not be used for public broadcast, streaming or any other purpose other than personal listening without our written authorisation.

Broadcasting ... Permission is available and may be obtained to broadcast or stream our productions, subject to our authorisation by contacting us. On receipt of your request, we will furnish you a copy of our conditions of production use. We reserve the right to require sight of your licensing documents.

Images ... The pictures and graphics we use on our website are from legally obtained resources. We have no objection or issue to anyone downloading or copying these items. However, we respectfully make you aware that the original owner may retain copyright. Normally, we can put you in touch with the organisation owning this copyright should you wish to use them commercially.

Non Commercial ... PD Productions is completely non commercial, we make no charge for downloading our productions or uploading them to radio stations provided their use is fully licensed by the user and used in every aspect within the appropriate provision of the laws of broadcasting and copyright.

Help ... If you require any assistance in respect of the above paragraphs or you are unsure of any condition made by us or the relevant authorities, we urge you to contact us prior to downloading any production / track.

PD Productions (UK) – Revised. March 2024.